

IIT Mandi has kickstarted the ‘Yuva Sangam’ program.

The Indian government's Yuva Sangam project aims to introduce students at higher education institutions (HEIs) and off-campus youth to other youth in other states and vice versa. It gives a thorough examination of many facets of life, as well as current successes, developmental milestones, and a connection amongst young people in the host state. During their travels, the teenagers will get experience in five main areas: tourism (Paryatan), traditions (Parampara), development (Pragati), inter-human relations (Paraspar Sampark), and technology (Prodyogiki). This is done to promote empathy and relationships amongst young people from different states. Participants will be able to interact with local children through this youth exchange and have a thorough grasp of the state they are visiting.
